GOV. LEWELLING HERE

He Returns from His California Trip Last Evening.

TALKS OF THE LEASE AFFIDAVITS.

Says He Never Heard of Them and Would Never Have Referred to Them if He Had.

Governor Lewelling was at his office in the statehouse earlier than usual this morning. He returned last evening. His month's trip through the west has much improved his health and he looks as if rest from office seekers had done him much good.

The governor spent most of his time during his absence from the city, in California where he has a number of relatives who he says have all become wealthy in raising California fruit.

Speaking of his trip, he said: "Kansas and California are the best states in the union, and are gardens compared with a great many other states. Kansas we call the best, and Californians will say their state surpasses all others, yet don't you know that these two states are attempting to solve the great question of transportation, which if properly solved would bring them into prominence quicker than anything else."

"You won't hear a word about the tariff out there, but the great producers are growing under the load of too high transportation charges.

"There the same feeling of unrest and political differences exists as in our own state, but I was surprised to see so much interest manifested in the Populist cause and party."

"At Oakland a Populist daily has been started, and the party is fighting on about the same lines as our party in this state. While they have not been so successful yet the party is of more recent origin there and its principles are only just beginning to be understood."

Governor Lewelling did not desire to say anything about the Lease affair further than that he knew nothing about the affidavits which Mrs. Lease alludes to in the letter to the Pleasanton Herald.

"I did not know of the existence of such an affidavit," said the governor, "and it would have made no difference if I had, because I should have never referred to it or used it in any connection."

MAYOR HARRISON RETURNS

He Has Finished His Law Business in the Iowa Courts.

Mayor Harrison returned last night from Des Moines, Iowa, where he submitted and argued several cases before the state supreme court. He does not know yet whether he won the cases or not; the court took them under advisement.

The mayor finds everything in Topeka in the same good order that characterized it when he left, and he remarked that between the police commissioners and the county commissioners the city could get along nicely without any mayor and council.

POLICE WORK FOR THE POOR

The Solicitation of Food and Clothing Begins This Morning.

Special Policemen Jones and Foote were put to work this morning soliciting contributions for the poor. They commenced on Van Buren street, one on each side of the street. They will move westward.

The patrol wagon will make its first trip to collect the bundles from the residences next Friday. Chief Lindsey is led to believe by the hearty application he has received from many callers at the police headquarters, his plan will be successful, and result in much goods towards relieving destitution in Topeka.

THE GHOST LIES LOW.

Since It Attained Newspaper Notoriety It Is Not So Frisky.

The ghosts are still walking at the home of "Bill" Hazen, 114 Monroe street, according to the statements of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen, although the mysterious spirits have not been seen by any of the several hundred visitors who have called since yesterday noon.

A North Topeka man who professes to be a spiritualistic medium, visited the home of the Hazens last night and remained until a late hour, but he says he did not see or hear any spirits, and does not believe the spirits have been there.

Some of the visitors say the house looks like any other home, and that the furniture which is scattered around in the front room looks as if it might have been set about by an able bodied man or woman.

Mrs. Hazen says she is sure the spirits are still around, although they have not been cutting up quite as many capers since Sunday. She says she won't sleep in the upstairs bed room again, but she is willing that any one who wishes to test the ghost story may occupy the room. She will not invite them a good night's sleep.

MARSHAL NEELY IS IN.

Several of the Subordinate Officials Seem to Be Out.

BOUGHT HOT WHISKY.

A Sanitary Policeman Got It and the Seller Arrested.

Tom Depew or "De Pol" was fined $100 in the police court today for selling liquor. He was represented by S. R. Isenhart, who gave notice of an appeal to the district court.

The evidence showed that Depew ran a small stand on Kansas avenue south of Eighth street, and Sanitary Officer D. B. Jones, one of the new sanitary force, went there and paid two cents for a half pint of whisky which Depew heated on a gasoline stove.

A GANG OF CAR THIEVES.

Operating in the Freight Yards in This City.

The police received word today that robbers had broken the seal on a car in the Union Pacific yards last night and stolen ten large boxes of plug tobacco.

Robberies of this sort have become so frequent in this city as to lead the police to believe that an organized band is responsible for it rather than petty thieves.

Sergeant Henry Steele was set to work on the case. A few nights ago Night Watchman Harry Hunter was shot through the hand by a would-be robber in the Union Pacific yards.

OH, WHAT A NIGHT.

Wm. Kimball Has an Exciting Time With a Crazy Man.

HE SETS THE HOUSE ON FIRE. Finally Taken in Custody by the Police, but Is Allowed to Go.

William Kimball, an old colored man better known as "Glick," because he never voted any but a straight Republican ticket except to vote for that Democrat for governor, had an experience with a crazy man last night.

"Glick" lives in a little shanty on the bank of the river, near Skinner's lee house, between Madison and Monroe streets. Last night another old colored man who said his name was Gibson, applied to Kimball for a place to sleep.

"I thought I would give the old man a place to sleep," Kimball says, "he seemed so miserable."

When Kimball went to church last night he left his strange friend sitting by the stove. When he returned he saw the house was brilliantly lighted up.

"I broke into a run," Kimball told the police today, "and when I got to the house I found the old man had made a bonfire right on the floor with all my bed clothes. He was sitting on a chair where the smoke was to thick I couldn't see him at first, and saying over and over, 'Burn, burn, burn!'"

It was hard work for Kimball to save his house, but he managed to do so by carrying water from the pump.

Kimball slept all night on the floor with a mattress over him, and Gibson slept on a chair close to the stove. Kimball kept one eye open, however, for his border.

This morning the crazy man deliberately took one of Kimball's shoes and put it in the fire. When Kimball asked him what he did it for he replied: "It ain't his, but it's mine."

"Glick" already alarmed at these and other peculiar actions of his visitor, started to find a policeman. He had no more than left the house, however, when Gibson dressed hurriedly, and putting on only one shoe, started off. Kimball found a policeman.

"He's crazy," he said, "when he gets mad he froths at the mouth like a mad dog, and when he eats the food goes in one corner of his mouth and leaks out of the other."

The police managed to catch Gibson this morning. He is personally a remarkable character. He was born July 4th, 1835, and served four years in the civil war. He has three bullets in his body, he says, and was also cut through the leg with a sabre. He shed tears when he told the police how he was shot in the war.

The police did not feel like holding Gibson so they asked the sheriff to take him. The sheriff replied that he would not do so unless there was a warrant out for him. "Glick" was therefore sent to Probate Judge Elliott by swear out a warrant for Gibson on the charge of insanity. Judge Elliott said he was "too busy." The police turned Gibson loose shortly after.

THE DEAN TO THE DEAN.

Father Hayden Gives Dean Colwell a Gold Headed Umbrella.

Just previous to the departure of Dean Colwell and family for Colorado Springs today, he was presented with a gold-headed silk umbrella by Dean Hayden of the Church of the Assumption. The gold head bore the inscription: "Dean Colwell, Jan. 31st, Topeka, Kansas."

Mr. Hayden in presenting the umbrella, spoke of the friendly relations that have existed between the two for several years, and that besides himself other priests had contributed toward the purchase of the umbrella.

TO DRIVE A HORSE.

The Whip a Cause of Fretting to a Lively Animal.

The health, length of life and usefulness of horses depend largely upon the manner in which they are treated. At the start it is important that the owner or driver should thoroughly understand the disposition, condition and ability of the animal that he drives. Some men can drive a horse 30 or even 40 miles at a good rate of speed and have the animal in better condition at the end than another after driving the same horse five miles. It is not by any means driving fast that injures a horse so much as improper driving. Often more strength and vitality are taken out of a horse in two miles of fretting through the mismanagement of the driver than in going several times this distance with proper care.

Some men cannot drive without a whip in their hands, whether it is needed or not, and while there is no doubt but that in some cases the whip is necessary yet it is often the cause of more fretting on the part of a lively horse than any other one thing.

The driver who thinks that because his horse is fresh he can stand it to be driven fast at the start for several miles, and then given a chance to rest by going slow, or one who drives fast for awhile and then slows down to a walk in order to test up ready for another start, will not get the best speed out of a horse with the least waste of vitality, especially in going long distances.

It is a steady gait that counts most and wears the horse least. Give him a chance to get warmed up first, and then let the gait be a steady one.

Another item is not to feed too heavily before driving. A light feed of oats will be far better than a heavier feed of a more bulky grain. Exercise or action too soon after eating retards digestion, and the animal that must travel at a good gait with a loaded stomach cannot but show the effects, and if driven rapidly for even a short distance after eating a hearty meal there is considerable risk of the colic.

Watering properly is fully as important as feeding. When a horse is being driven on the road, he should not at any time be allowed to overeat his stomach with a large quantity of water. So far as is possible the rule should be to give water frequently, and while he should have all that he will drink it should be given in small doses.

A horse in good health can stand more work and more driving without injury than one that is in any way out of condition. The feed and care should be such as are best calculated to maintain health and thrift, and then, when on the road, care must be taken to use this strength and vigor to the best advantage.

The good driver can tell by the way his horse goes the amount of work he should have.—Cur. St. Louis Republic.

AN AGED PENSIONER.

Governor Glick Tells a Good Story About Him.

HE MADE A HIT LAST SUMMER

Which Greatly Pleased the Democrats and is to be Rewarded for it Through the Instrumentality of Congressman Curtis.

Congressman Charles Curtis a few weeks ago introduced a bill increasing the pension of the oldest pensioner in Kansas from $80 to $50 a month. Andrew Franklin is the man's name and he resides at Burlington, Kas.

Pension Agent Glick today says that he has forwarded to Washington information which will probably secure the desired increase and he tells the following story about the case:

"During the heated campaign of a year ago, a Republican campaign speaker was billed to speak at Burlington. He did so and among the crowd in attendance was Mr. Franklin who is a Republican.

"The speaker heaped all kinds of abuse upon the Democratic party and told how it had robbed the poor and made the rich richer and the poor poorer. He referred to the party as the mean, corrupt and dishonest party ever in existence, and after he had gushed forth his store of knowledge and abuse, said: "I appeal to any of you gentlemen to tell me any disreputable thing that the Democratic party has not done."

"Silence like the silence of death reigned for a few minutes; then this old soldier, decrepit and hardly able to stand up alone, arose and said: 'I'll tell you one thing they haven't done; they never stole the presidency!'"

"Cheers after cheers arose from the crowd, and in explanation Mr. Franklin said: 'Don't abuse your enemies, but treat them as honest men, although they differ from you in political belief!'"

COMING THIS WAY.

It Is Snowing All Over the Northwest Today.

Sergeant Jennings of the weather bureau predicts cold weather for the next few days with probable snow.

Information received at his office today shows that it is snowing in Nebraska, South Dakota, Utah, Wyoming and Montana, and that the storm is moving eastward, but so far it has passed over a district north of Kansas.
